SalesProfile™

SalesProfile™ is a new innovative job website for sales professionals seeking a new job. Instead of posting a traditional resume, salespeople can effectively showcase their true talents online. Candidates can create a multimedia profile, deliver a 30-second "elevator pitch" video and complete an optional online behavioral assessment. This content-rich site will give employers the opportunity to quickly find the best candidates that match their search criteria. Employers get the opportunity to quickly review the candidates' professional abilities, review their assessment results and compare the best candidates.

SalesProfile™ also features a unique "job matching" wizard, where job seekers can answer a series of questions about the type of sales position they are seeking. When they search available job opportunities, it will display the percent match to that job (e.g. 90% match) next to each job listing. Employers can add profiles to their "favorites list" for later review, and/or quickly send messages directly through the system to candidates they've decided to interview. www.salesprofile.com/
